LONDON NEWS NOTES OF WIDE INTEREST

Heavy Rains, Following Severe Drouth, Have Done Great Damage in Various Parts of Nation.

London, Nov. 11.—The heavy rains which have broken the exceptional drouth which has prevailed this year in England may have done more damage than good, according to reports made by numerous landlors.

They assert that the long drouth has played the part of a long-sustained earthquake with the heavy rains acting as the final shake. So severe has been the action on many buildings that the repair bills will equal the rental for the next two years.

The shrinkage of the clay and other subsoils has been so great that in some places whole streets of houses have developed threatening cracks, drainage systems have been disorganized, and building inspectors are having the busiest times of their careers. The damage to the London suburbs has been especially severe. There has been a wholesale subsidence in a number of Hertfordshire villages, and some of the finest old homes in the clay districts of the Midlands are threatened with destruction. Architects and builders attribute the disturbances solely to the shrinkage of the subsoil, which is much worse on the clay soils which normally hold the most water.

General regret is felt that Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, chief of the bureau of chemistry of the United States department of agriculture, was not able to accept the invitation of the Council of Pure Food and Health Society of Great Britain to preside at their national congress to be held here next March. Dr. Wiley is well known in England both for his advocacy of pure food laws at home and for his attendance here at numerous congresses held in connection with applied chemistry and food adulteration.

It is hoped at the coming congress, to formulate practical proposals for the standardizing of food stuffs, for the definition of what are legitimate and illegitimate manufacturing processes, for the proper distribution of food for sale for the codification of existing laws, and for the centralization of the work of inspection in the local government board.

The society will endeavor to present a strong legislative program to the government, the chief feature of which will seek to correct the abuses alleged to have grown up on account of the food and drug inspectors working only under local authority. So far have some of the local authorities become that it is said the law is a dead letter in several places.

An age limit and not the length of residence at the college or university from which they register may soon be the rule which will regulate the eligibility of Rhodes scholars for Oxford athletic teams.

At present the rule is that no athlete is qualified to gain the coveted half or full Blue by representing Oxford on the playing field, after he has completed four years residence. Some Rhodes scholars have already completed two or three years at some foreign or colonial university before reaching Oxford and through their inter-varsity play tends to develop into a case of men versus boys. In considering this evil the authorities at first thought of ruling that in the future the four-year rule should apply to any university at which the scholars were in attendance, so a Rhodes man, who had been in college three years before reaching Oxford would only be eligible to one year's play there. Owing to the difficulty of determining what constitutes a school of university standing this solution has been dropped. The plan now most favored is the substitution of an age limit and it is believed that before long a rule will be adopted that no man more than twenty-five years of age may represent either Oxford or Cambridge. This ruling would still give the Rhodes scholars an advantage of two years over the students matriculating from United Kingdom schools.

The new submarine cable telephone which the British postoffice is laying between this country and Belgium is said to possess speaking properties markedly superior to any now in existence. Eighteen months ago considerable attention was attracted to the new Anglo-French cable, which was the first submarine telephone cable to be fitted with what are known technically as "loading" coils. In this cable at intervals of one nautical mile throughout the whole length, there are inserted series of four coils, two above and two below the electrical effect of which is to increase the capacity of the cables by anything from 250 to 270 per cent. This cable which has two circuits, was of an experimental character, and so much doubt having been expressed as to the feasibility of the coils, was designed so that the "loaded" coils could be cut out of use altogether leaving it an ordinary telephone cable.

So successful has it proven, however, that the designers of the new Anglo-Belgium cable have provided that the "loaded" coils must be essential for its use. By doing this it has been possible to reduce the weight of the insulation from 700 to 150 pounds per mile, and as gutta-percha is used exclusively, a considerable saving over the cost of the Anglo-French cable will be made.

CHEERED TO DEATH.

Concord, N. H., High School Girl Died from the Excitement.

Concord, N. H., Nov. 13.—Barbara Newbold, a senior in the Concord high school, is believed to have given her life as a result of the school celebration at the victory of the football team over Nashua high Saturday afternoon.

The students turned out in unusual numbers and Miss Newbold participated in the school songs and cheers throughout the contest. Just as the game was about to end, a celebration began, which lasted for nearly two hours. The students paraded the streets, cheering and singing.

Miss Newbold was rather delicate, but of a very excitable nature, and she became much wrought up and fatigued by the excitement. This was noticed when she went to spend the night at the home of a girl friend at Wheelers Corner.

Early Sunday morning she was seized with hemorrhages of the lungs and died before her parents could reach her. There seems to be no doubt that the strain which the young girl placed upon her throat and lungs induced the hemorrhages as she had never had them previously.

A shadow has been cast over the entire school, as Miss Newbold was very popular among the students. She is the daughter of Ernest Newbold of 16 Church street, a well-known granite manufacturer.

IN WOMAN'S REALM

When La Follette Saw Booth.

In the second installment of Senator La Follette's autobiography in the American Magazine for November, he tells how, when a poor young man in Washington, attending his first session in the House, both he and his wife had to leave until late at night addressing and mailing thousands of speeches to his constituents. He writes:

"We do not look upon those days with self pity. We were both young and vigorous and they were among the happiest and most hopeful years we ever spent. We gave ourselves comparatively few amusements, but those that we did take, we enjoyed supremely. Our interest in the drama has always been keen, and I remember that when ever Booth and Barrett came to play in Baltimore—they never came to Washington owing to Booth's aversion to the scene of the tragedy with which his brother was connected—Mrs. La Follette and I threw discretion utterly to the winds, and went over to every evening performance while their engagement lasted."
